The word BaZi literally translates to ‘Eight Character’. Because the eight characters are derived from four pairs of characters adorning four pillars, BaZi is sometimes called Four Pillars of Destiny, Four Pillars or Si Zhu.

It is important to know the difference between BaZi and the daily newspaper zodiac signs horoscope. The animal forecasts that you see in the media daily or weekly are merely for entertainment purposes. Reading them might be fun and humorous, but while you do so please bear in mind that they are not real BaZi applications or analyses.

So what exactly is BaZi? BaZi is a hundreds and thousands of possible combinations and probabilities that make up a complex system of astrology. As scientific as it sounds, BaZi is a classical study dating back to the Tang Dynasty. Notable ancient texts of BaZi studies include Di Tian Sui, Zi Ping Zhen Quan and Yuan Hai Zi Ping.

The founding father of BaZi is Grand Master Xu Zi Ping during the Five Dynasty era (AD 907-978). He revolutionised BaZi system and also was the brain behind the Zi Ping BaZi system that is widely practiced today by notable masters and consultants alike.

BaZi is the translation of our birth information i.e. year, month, day and hour of birth; by plotting them into four pairs of Chinese characters called Jia Zi. Simply said the four pairs make eight characters, each pair is known as Four Pillars; hence the name.
The eight characters are made up by Yin and Yang polarity of the five elements (Wood, metal, water, fire and earth). A person’s character, nature and life path can be analysed and determined by their BaZi and its contents such as the relationship and interactions between the eight characters, clashes, combinations and the compatibility of the elements on the whole.

With BaZi, we can unveil a person’s Destiny Code. The information contained in a Destiny Code can be used for many purposes, such as to accelerate performance at work, strengthen relationships, overcome weaknesses, maximise potentials, increase talents, and make proper, informed decisions that would assure a prosperous and successful life.
